NOTE FOR: DCI ✓

FROM: Dave Gries dg

SUBJECT: Your Contacts with Congress

Your increased contact with Members is attracting attention. Intelligence and Appropriations Committee staffs have noticed it, and some Members have commented favorably. As we continue with this increased level of activity, I recommend that you delegate to me responsibility for deciding when, where and whom to contact and what topics both sides should be prepared to discuss. Accordingly, if you agree, in the future we will work directly with rather than sending you approval memoranda before scheduling each contact.

STAT

In addition, we would like to introduce new formats from time to time. One such is to invite groups of six to twelve Congressmen, together with a sprinkling of CIA employees, to informal, stand-up cocktails in your office at 6 p.m.

Another is holding larger meetings on the Hill in the offices of a chairman or vice chairman of a committee of importance to us. For example, we might ask Chappel to invite all the Democrats from the HAC Defense Subcommittee to his office to meet with you in the late afternoon to discuss a particular issue. OK

The objective of all this activity is to strengthen your relationship and the DDCI's relationship with Congress; increase Congressional support for the Intelligence Community; work issues of the moment like the Reserve; and expose other senior managers--especially the deputy directors--to Members on an informal basis. Although these activities will eat up a fair amount of time, the pay off should be substantial. As noted, there are already signs that Congress has noticed and approves.
